Service Playing Certificate

Have you read the Mission Statement of the American Guild of Organists lately? If not, its scope might surprise you. The guild exists "to promote the organ . . .to encourage excellence . . .to provide a forum for mutual support, inspiration, education, and certification of Guild members.

Certification?

Through study and testing, Guild members can receive several designations:

- Service Playing Certificate (SPC)
- Colleague (CAGO)
- Associate (AAGO)
- Fellow (FAGO)
- Choir Master (ChM)

Each certificate shows that a guild member has demonstrated proficiency in specific areas of musical study.

Here are some quick facts about Guild certification:

1. The program is already in place and strengthens the organist in areas such as sight-reading, accompaniment, and hymn playing.
2. Preparation is flexible and can be done individually, with a teacher, or in a group.

3. There are no surprises at exam time. Requirements are carefully laid out in advance. (See the July 2008 issue of TAO or www.agohq.org for a complete listing of skill and repertoire requirements/options.)
4. The exam can be repeated if necessary.
5. Some churches base their pay rates for church musicians on the AGO's compensation guidelines, which are tied to degrees and certification.
6. Becoming certified will increase your confidence and improve your skills.

Several AGO chapters provide certification classes for their members. The Jacksonville chapter is considering such an endeavor if the desire and the need exist. Our plan is to begin with the Service Playing Certificate designation. We'll have a group meeting in early November to determine the needs and set classes that will allow us to work through the examination deadline, which is April 30, 2009.

If you would appreciate some help with the certification process, please contact Tony Cruz by email (vespers@comcast.net) or cell phone (904-742-5136). If you are a member who can provide instruction for certification, please contact Tony as well.

Interim Organist Westminster Presbyterian Church 3722 Belfort Road, Jacksonville, FL 32216 • Phone 904-737-5133
Our organist of 16 years has recently departed our congregation because of family responsibilities. We are in need of an interim organist, a position that might be extended. We have two Sunday services: morning worship at 10:45, which is in a traditional style with a two-manual organ, and evening worship at 6:00 with piano. At this time we have several talented young women who are willing to play the piano for the evening service, if necessary. We have no choir at this time, and very seldom do any special music, but have several interested congregation members. In addition, there are several in the congregation who are studying violin. We hope eventually to include more strings in the worship services, given that someone can arrange. We are a conservative congregation with a formal worship style and hope to continue our tradition of strong hymn singing. We use the Trinity Hymnal of the Presbyterian Church of America, and several have studied the musical style of the Reformed University Ministries. We have a great appreciation for the Reformed Faith of historic Presbyterianism. Our worship is God-centered, rich in Scripture content, and not entertainment oriented. We practice the regulative principle of worship, desiring to include only that which God's Word commands. A growing relationship with Christ Jesus is essential to participate in the worship. It is joyous and soul-satisfying. Salary is negotiable, commensurate with experience. Please reply to Steve Jennings at email jsmjenn@yahoo.com.
